Social and Personal

At 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Vernon Methodist Church, at Toano, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Miss Ella Mae Marston was married to George Lyons Farinholt. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. J. E. White, and the church was decorated with lighted candles and palms and ferns.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her away. Her gown was of white, charming satin embroidered in crystals, and her tulle veil was caught with lilacs of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies. Miss Bonnie Wynne Marston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of pale green chiffon over silk of the same shade. She carried a bouquet of gladiolus roses. Kinney Richardson was the bridesmaid.

The bridesmaids included Misses Parish Richardson, of Hock; Roberta Saunders, of Newport News; Eulalie Martin and Alice Branch, of Toano. They wore gowns of white, carried bouquets of white silk and carried bou-

The punch bowls were set in the sun parlor and decorated with lilacs and pink roses. Mrs. Munce received in a gown of king's blue satin with a black belt trimmed in blue. Assisting Mrs. Munce in the dining room were Mrs. Moore, Dr. Hogg, Mrs. Charles G. Boshor, Mrs. Charles Blanton, Mrs. Wm. G. Stannard, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Wm. Marshall Gilliam, Mrs. Thomas Cary Johnson, Mrs. Henry A. Sampson. Five hundred people were invited.

For Mrs. Wadley.
Mrs. W. W. Boxley entertained Tuesday afternoon at an informal tea drinking in honor of her sister, Mrs. Everett Wadley, of Richmond.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with fragrant lilacs. Miss Lila Jamison presided at the punch bowl.

The assisting hostesses were, Misses Paul Jamison, Hannah Cook, Fannie Halsey and Mrs. Walter Carpenter.

Last Lecture of Series.
The last of the series of lectures under the auspices of the Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses will be delivered by Dr. Grover Baughman this evening at 8:15 o'clock. Dr. Baughman's subject will be, "The Events of To-Morrow," and it is hoped all the graduate nurses of the city will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear what the future has in store for them. Dr. Baughman, who has studied abroad, and always being interested in the professional nurse, will compare the profession abroad to that of our own States.

In and Out of Town.
Miss Sarah Hamilton, of Petersburg, is visiting friend in Richmond this week.

Mrs. R. Latimer Gordon has gone to Waynesboro, where she is the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Talbot.

Miss Hattie Shields, of West Franklin Street, is the guest of Mrs. A. C. Jones in Newport News.

Miss Mary Traylor is spending some time visiting friends in New York City.

Miss Virginia Cooke, of Norfolk, is visiting Miss Louise Crenshaw here for a few days.

Miss Nan Dupuy, of this city, is spending some time as the guest of friends in Roanoke.

Miss Lena E. Moeller is registered at the Imperial Hotel in New York City.

The marriage of Miss Ada Virginia Emmet, daughter of the late Pendleton Emmet, of New York City, and Robert Hurt, of New York City, took place on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother in Lynchburg. Dr. W. W. Hamilton, pastor of the First Baptist Church in that city, performed the ceremony, and the house was decorated with palms, ferns and white lilacs.

The bride entered the drawing room with her mother, who also gave her away. She wore a traveling gown of gray cloth, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley. Her only attendant was a pearl brooch, the gift of the groom. Mrs. D. T. Edwards was maid of honor and the bride's only bridesmaid. She was dressed in gray voile over tulle and carried Parma violets. John L. Hurt, of Danville, was the groom's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurt left at once for a wedding trip that will include Washington, Philadelphia and Atlantic City. After April 26, they will make their home in New York City. Quite a large number of relatives and friends have come to Richmond to be present at the informal reception this afternoon, and a great many people will call from 5 to 7 to tender their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Tyler, on this very interesting occasion.

HUGE PAINTING GIVEN TO LIBRARY

W. H. Bosley Presents Enormous Painting of Lee and His Generals to State.

PRICE OF REPORTS RAISED

Lawyers Must Hereafter Pay $2.50 Volume—Change Standard on Seed Corn.

Through Representative E. E. Holland, of the Second Congressional District, William H. Bosley of Baltimore has presented a large painting of Lee and his Generals to the Virginia State Library. This is by far the largest picture in the library, being eight feet six inches in height and seventeen feet six inches in length. It is by W. P. Matthews.

The work has been accepted by the State Library. It is particularly, it has been hung in the reading room, whence several Governors of the past have been taken down to make room for it. The intention is to place it in the corridor almost opposite the State Library. It is a large painting of Lee and his Generals, and it is a very fine work of art.

Virginia Reports Will Cost $2.50
Volume After May 1

Only twelve days remain wherein lawyers of Virginia may buy volumes of the Virginia Reports at the low price which has prevailed during the past few years. After May 1, the cost will be $2.50 the volume, an increase of $1.

This price applies to back copies as well as those which are current. Many lawyers have availed themselves of the opportunity to complete their libraries, and many orders are daily reaching the Secretary of the Commonwealth for old and new copies.

Prior to the meeting of the Legislature of 1910, the State charged $3.50 volume for Virginia Reports. That body decreed that the price should be $2.50, with the idea that sales would be stimulated. This was not done by separate act, but by an addition to the general appropriation bill. Lawyers have doubted the validity of the change, but it was not contested. The sale of old numbers was greatly increased, to those desiring to complete sets, and there was a somewhat greater sale of new volumes. But the State lost money, especially since at $1.50 the volume the profit is practically nothing.

Seed Corn Standard Changed.
Commissioner Kolmer, of the Department of Agriculture, wants dealers to know that the standard of purity required in seed corn has been modified. The former standard was 100 per cent, and one unclean grain would be sufficient to condemn an entire shipment. Hereafter, purity of 98 per cent. will be required. The standard of germination remains the same, 95 per cent. being required in field corn.

Nurses Appointed.
Governor Mann yesterday reappointed Miss Nannie J. Minor, of Richmond, a member of the State Board for Graduate Nurses, for a term of five years from June 4, 1912.

Miss Alice Van Peit, of Lynchburg, was appointed a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Gertrude Phillips, of Norfolk, whose term would have expired on June 4, 1912.

NOT PARTIES TO TRUST
Complaints Against Nine Defendants in Shoe Machinery Suit Dismissed

Boston, April 18.—On motion of the government attorneys, the complaints against nine of the defendants in the United Shoe Machinery Company case were dismissed in the United States District Court here today. These defendants had demurred on the ground that they were not parties to the original complaint and did not share in its profits. They are the United Shoe and Needle Company, United Fast Color Company, S. A. Pelton & Son Company, Campbell & Co., Boston Shoe Company, Boston Hocking Company, C. Rhodes & Co., Incorporated, Rimmer Eyelet Company, S. C. & C. Corporation and Thomas G. Plant Company.

This will enable the government to proceed at once to the trial of the United Shoe Machinery Company and its subsidiaries, which have filed no answers.

RUNS INTO RIVER BANK.
Steamer Lancaster Damaged—Officers to Camp at Fredericksburg.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., April 18.—The steamer Lancaster, of the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company, under command of Captain J. B. Burroughs, ran into the Rapahannock River bank at this place, crushing in the bow and probably some other damages, and the steamer was unable to proceed. W. D. Scott, the agent here, when he was informed of the accident, dispatched a steamer tug, the Dixie, which towed the steamer to the wharf here.

Officers of the Army War College at Washington, with a troop of cavalry, will visit Fredericksburg on May 1 and go into camp on Captain M. B. Rowe's land, near the city, remaining four or five days. They will go from here to Chancellorsville, the Wilderness and Bloody Angle, stopping several days at each point, and then continue their trip on to Richmond. There will be about 100 men, nearly as many horses, with the usual wagon train, commissary department, tent, troop of cavalry, etc.

COUNTRESS OF ROTHES SAVED FROM TITANIC

Another Chapter to Thrilling Episodes in History of House of Leslie.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONSENOY.
THE Countess of Rothes's rescue from death by drowning on the occasion of that terrible catastrophe, the sinking of the White Star steamer Titanic, the greatest maritime disaster since the sinking of the Lusitania, is a story of heroic courage and human hands, by a still greater natural monster, an iceberg, adds one more chapter to the long list of thrilling episodes in the history of the House of Leslie, one of the oldest in Scotland, a history, a plain recital of the bare events of which would throw into the shade the adventures of any writer of fiction would dare to weave into his stories. Lady Rothes was on her way here to join her husband, when the great maritime disaster occurred.

Lord Rothes came to this country about two months ago—I think it was in the beginning of February—while his friend Sir Curtis Lamont, with the intention of obtaining data regarding the question whether the telegraph service as administered by the state in England is superior in efficiency, and gives greater satisfaction to the public than that furnished in the United States by private enterprise. There has always been a feeling in England that the government made a bad bargain when it acquired the business of the telegraph companies by purchase.

Lord Rothes is a nice young fellow, well set up, with pleasant face and manners. He manifested considerable amusement on being asked by the reporters on landing, whether it was really true that he held the high office of hereditary bootjack to the King in Scotland, as set forth in my letter printed on the day of his arrival. But he objected when some disrespectful reporter misquoted me by asking him whether he was bootjack to the King of England. He was, however, compelled to admit that he had certain prerogatives which might be construed as equivalent to the office of grand bootjack of the King in Scotland, as the Earls and Dukes of Rothes have for several hundred years possessed in their family the hereditary right of removing the sovereign's boots on his return from any royal chase in Scotland. This was—and has not ceased to be—a highly honorable office. For in early times a royal hunt was as great a pageant as nowadays is the monarch's procession to open Parliament or to hold some great military review. The ancient hunting etiquette did not come to an end until the monarch had been restored to his private apartments, and had been helped with his ablutions, changes of clothing, etc. In those troublous times the fact that the monarch admitted one of his nobles to accompany him while he was in such a degrading condition showed that he had the utmost confidence in his loyalty.

The present Lord Rothes has been so delighted with his visit to the United States and has been so impressed with the advantage offered for safe and lucrative investment of capital, as compared with analogous opportunities in England, that instead of sailing home ten days ago, as originally planned, he remained on this side and sent for Lady Rothes, insisting that she should join him here, in order that she might obtain a personal idea of what he had seen, and of the conclusions that he had arrived at.

The Earlom of Rothes
